VALEDICTORIAN'S SPEECH

Good Evening,

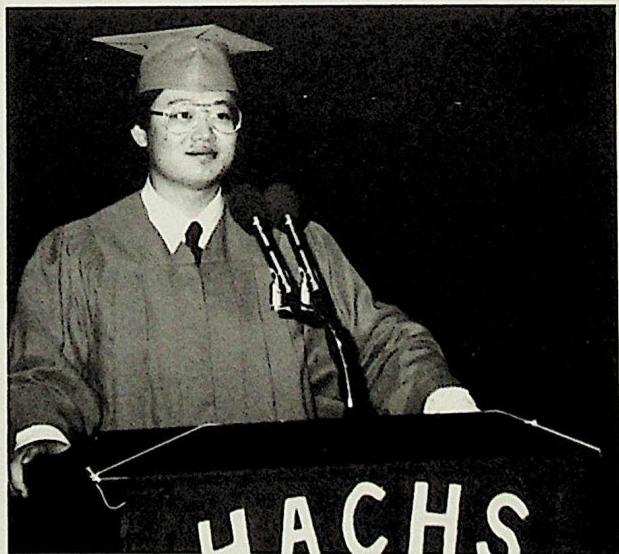

Graduation has finally arrived. Perhaps the most awaited moment of a high school student's life, graduation brings forth sentiments of accomplishment, jubilation, and liberation, feelings that we shall carry with us throughout our lives. For weeks I have sensed the restlessness of the graduating class, and even now I can feel the anticipation of that final moment when all exams have been completed, that moment when an intense joy overcomes us.

But graduation is more than a release. When we first entered Harry Ainlay, we came with an uncertainty and perhaps even a fear of what the future would hold for each of us. As we progressed through the years, we matured in mind and our confidence grew. We have now come full circle. We have preserved through the hardships and pressures of high school to return to that selfsame point where we are uncertain of the future. For many, graduation heralds the continuation of studies at a post-secondary institution, as well as the first true steps towards independence. In either case we shall be thrust into an unfamiliar environment, perhaps far from guiding hands, unsure of our footing. But insecurity is a fact of life that will follow us through the years, and we must be prepared to meet it.

Our experiences of the past three years will serve as our foothold in the times to come. It is in high school that we have been given the skills that we shall use throughout life. We have learned to strive for excellence, to solve problems competently, to cooperate with others, to apply ourselves to the task at hand. We have made lasting friendships that we shall hold dear, and we have acquired a confidence in ourselves. The people that we have befriended have made lasting impressions on us; their influences have in each of us formed the basis for the opinions, values and maxims that we shall uphold through the years. If we have previously been oblivious to the importance and value of the past three years, I am confident that we realize it tonight.

As I stand here tonight I also scan the audience hoping to find the familiar face of a friend among the multitude of anonymous figures. There are many of you that I know personally, and many of you that I do not - but that is of no consequence. I stand here tonight feeling an overwhelming sense of pride, but it is not solely due to the honor of being the Valedictorian. No, the pride I feel at this moment is the pride I have for the graduating class, for my fellow students. In a school the size of Harry Ainlay it would be difficult for me to know everyone. Yet, I feel confident that all of us have over the past three years met our self expectations and have proven ourselves. We all have faced great pressures and persevered, we all have followed our aspirations and have succeeded in varying degrees, we all have felt sorrow and joy at Harry Ainlay, we each have through hard work found our limits - we have done all this together. Thus the exhilaration I feel tonight is a joy for all of us. Before me I see the future leaders of the world, the young men and women that will create a new, better world. Graduation is a time of joy, and yet there is a certain sadness that we must part to take our different paths. But the memories of yesteryear will live on. Graduating class of 1989, I salute you - may your hopes and dreams never perish.

Thank You
Peng Mok

(Mike and Matt enter to loud Metallica or Cult music)

MIKE: Oh my God Matt! I can't believe we're actually here. Metallica!

MATT AND MIKE: Wicked!!!!

(Both Matt and Mike hold up lit lighters and sway back and forth.)

MIKE: What's wrong with you people, get your lighters out. LET'S ROCK AND ROLL!!!"

MATT: Mike...this isn't the Metallica concert. What do the tickets say today.

(Mike gets out ticket)

MIKE: No way man!! We've come the wrong night!

MATT: Uh...Mike...who are all these freaks in the blue gowns?

MIKE: Hey this is Harry Ainlay's Commencement.

MATT: Dude! We're toast!

MIKE: The chicks are gonna be pissed.

(Jen and Tracy enter)

TRACY: We can't leave you alone for two minutes.

JEN: I should've known you'd screw this up. As long as we're here, we might as well say something...So how about that thing called high school?

TRACY: It was the best of times, it was the worst of times.

MATT: It's over now, so welcome to the jungle.

MIKE: And what a jungle this world is eh? Not a happy place what with all those disasters, hurricane Gilbert, the Exxon oil spill, the Green House Effect, and the Gretzky trade. Makes high school a pretty cool place to be.

JEN: Oh, I don't know about that. The world's not that a bad place.

TRACY: When Oprah shed those 100 pounds, I had renewed faith in the world.

MIKE: Through those high school years, the days got longer and the parking lots got smaller.

JEN: How many of you remember those dreaded words..."they're towing"...Those of you who were lucky enough to drive, that is.

MATT: I, myself, came to school personally chauffeured in an $80 000 driving machine.

MIKE: The ETS bus, ya Toban!

TRACY: You know what we're talking about, those chipper bus drivers, always willing to lend a helpful hand.

JEN: leaving you stranded at some desolate bus stop in minus 30 degree weather.

MIKE: I'm pumped, I feel so great...I mean Reveen walked this very stage.

MATT (in Reveen's voice): Bark like a dog! Bark like a dog! Show me your panties! Show me your panties!

MIKE: In grade ten, it all began. It was the year when checking your fly became second nature.

TRACY: We were also forced to deal with all the necessary truths of the world.

JEN: The library for instance. Our school's version of life behind the iron curtain.

TRACY: Once you step between those swinging doors, your rights are forfeit to the higher purpose of learning.

JEN: Talking is not permitted as ordered by commandant Melnychuk.

MATT: Incidentally, how many of you have noticed that the loudest person in the library is Mr. Melnychuk? (imitating Mr. Melnychuk) "You guys got your I.D. cards" or "If you want to talk you can go to the cafeteria, you jokers."

MIKE: Another of these truths was the bathrooms.

JEN: Did you ever notice that anything porcelain or chrome was always wet with some questionable liquid.

MATT: Personally, I flushed the toilet with my feet....when I did flush them.

TRACY: You discovered the severity of this truth in Bio 10.

MIKE: When you collected those scotch tape samples, the bacteria from the bathroom always seemed to grow the best.

MATT: The bathrooms also contained the best example for school board cutbacks.

JEN: You know, these special toilet paper dispensers which gave you only one sheet at a time.

TRACY: In grade ten, we were introduced to the ultimate social haven, the rotunda.

MIKE (in twilight zone voice): Picture this, 300 kids gathered around a pit of cement, eating their lunches.

MATT: Everyone of them fearful of stepping into the "No Man's Land" of the Rotunda's centre.

JEN: Believe it

TRACY: Or not

JEN: If that concept isn't too bizarre, then how about those few kids who seemed to continually orbit the rotunda to pass time.

EVERYONE: ...never getting anywhere.

TRACY: Remember those lunches?

MATT: When are those parents ever gonna realize you that eat the cookie, the drinkbox and that sweaty cheese and rice cake thing goes in the garbage.

MIKE: And how about those dances in Grade 10.

JEN: Did you ever notice how there was always that one girl who had drunk a case of beer, half a mickey of vodka, 8 shots of tequila and a Seagram's peach cooler?...or so she said.

MATT: You remember these grade ten girls, the ones who said, (imitating a drunk girl) "I'm so wasted" to every guy she encountered.

TRACY: For these reasons it became impossible to use the bathrooms. All the stalls were occupied by those devoted worshippers.

JEN: You know, the grade ten chicks, praying to that porcelain god.

MIKE: The errors of our barbaric ways were pointed out to us by our S.U. president, Cathlyn Robinson. She, on the other hand, strictly abstained from the devil's brew...

EVERYONE: Right!

MIKE: See you at RATT tonight Cath. Oh, and bring your I.D.

JEN: Then there was always that nice, naive Grade 10, who would throw a party.

TRACY: Usually the entire school population would take it upon themselves to attend.

MATT: (in a nerdish voice): I didn't invite you guys. Oh well, come on in. There's enough Jujubes & Pepsi for everyone.

MIKE: We got smarter though and took the party outside. THE BUSH PARTY.

TRACY: I remember those...scaling 40 foot cliffs through insect-infested swamplands, simply to drink and have a fire. How fun!

JEN: We finally came into our own in Grade 11. We found one of those famous Ainlay cliques to which we sadly belonged.

MIKE: Why don't we start at the top, Ainlay's scholars. Those gifted few always more than willing to enlighten their less privileged peers that because they would not attend university, they would lose 30 grand a year.

TRACY: These were the students whose second language was usually English and whose favorite saying was "I think,...therefore, I.B."

MATT: But seriously folks, these students could very well be the leaders of tomorrow, the next Lester Pearson.

JEN: ..the next Martin Luther King

TRACY: ...the next Mother Theresa

MIKE:the next Whitemud conservative.

MATT: Our grade 11 year saw the emergence of the deadly duo, Fabutan & Acidwash.

HISTORIANS

JEN: Orange colored skin seemed almost common in January.

MIKE: Of course, no one would admit to it. It was just...uh...high keratin levels...yeah.

TRACY: As for Acidwash, I'd rather not talk about that "dappled denim" stuff, it still gives me nightmares.

MATT: Then there were the Drama students, the beaded bohemian actors.

TRACY: Their goals involved protecting the environment, saving the rainforests, protecting the ozone layer, releasing prisoners of conscience and preserving the rights to wear black on even the hottest summer day.

JEN: Moving right along, there were, of course, the preps, our school's so called elite.

MATT (in Robin Leech's voice): This eccentric student's daddy went to the very limit. He bought his little boy a convertible Jeep equipped with a portable compact disc player, a cellular phone, radar detector and a jacuzzi for four. I'm screaming and I don't know why.

TRACY: Then, Ainlay's pride and joy, our athletes. Best represented through our football teams adorned with brush cuts and Nike crostrainers.

JEN: They worshipped the ultimate body and followed their mentor Arnold Schwarzeneggar. NO weakness could be tolerated.

MATT (in Arnold Schwarzenegger's voice): Look at me now and fantasize about me later, you puny little man, you. Look at that saggy teabag you call a pectoral muscle I laugh at you. Slap some icing on that and we'd have dessert for 400.

TRACY: Just from looking at ME, you know how outraged I was when they shut down the weightroom...

JEN: Anyways, on to the Heads,

TRACY: You probably met them on your first day at Ainlay when you got lost and wandered in the....VOCATIONAL WING

MIKE: There they stood, a blow torch in one hand and Gillette Extra Foamy in the other.

TRACY: Grade 11 also saw the emergence of the dreaded skate rat.

MATT (in Skater voice): Hey Dude, did you catch Chico grad that 3 foot stale-fish-air to fakie. Excellent!! Let's go scarf some food and scope some betties.

MIKE: In Grade 11 there also began several rumours considering certain deceased rock stars.

MATT: We'd like to take this time to lay some of those rumours to rest.

JEN: Yes it's true, the king is alive.

TRACY: Elvis is in the 3rd balcony and he'll be playing a short set at the end of the night with Roy Orbison and Jim Morrison.

MATT: But don't look!! Ya you! The bald guy! The guy's a bit jumpy. 12 years of cocaine can do that to you.

JEN: He's been spending his time as a gas attendant in Ashmont, St. Paul and as a roadie for Michael Jackson's Bad Tour.

EVERYONE: Way to go Elvis! (everyone claps)

MIKE: Finally we made it. Grade 12. Boy did those chicks want us.

JEN: Sure guys, that really seemed the case last week. Perhaps you could enlighten the audience with your true luck with the women.

MIKE: Buenos dios....and buenos nachos.

MATT: Out've my league.

MIKE: Didn't even give us the time o' day.

MATT: She must've seen my uni-brow.

MIKE: And my big forehead must not be helping much either.

TRACY: In Grade 12 some students were fortunate enough to experience the Europe 30 trip.

JEN: They were able to see new cultures, cuisine and people.

MIKE: In all honesty, the main thing I learned was that, yes, it's true, I.B.'s CAN party.

MATT: You get a beer between four of them and it's all over, they're bouncing off the walls.

TRACY: Student's Union! As our newly elected S.U. president, Cathlyn Robinson promised us a "kinder and gentler" year, but the S.U. activities proved to be anything but gentle.

JEN: Innocent events such as Musical Chairs, Name That Tune, and the Obstacle Course quickly deteriorated into Wrestlemania 5.

MIKE: TSN probably would have bought the broadcasting rights.

MATT: Although it is hard to beat (in radio announcers voice) Monster Truck Madness, Nitrous Oxide Funny car burnout.

MIKE: Mean screaming wheeling machines, Bigfoot, Orange Crush, they're all there.

MATT: And the dynamite lady blows herself up!!

TRACY: Without entertainment such as this, we often had to create our own.

JEN: Ah....Rumours.

TRACY: A small confrontation that initially didn't involve Harry Ainlay, by the end of the day, had become....

MIKE (in a radio announcer's voice): A race riot, as hoodlums armed with Mach. 10 machine guns and Claymore mines terrorized innocent people, killing 6....Film at 11.

JEN: On another note, there was fashion and Harry Ainlay began to display the cutting edge.

MATT: Georgie, could you pass the Alberto, my pony-tail's coming loose.

MIKE: Oh look at Lindsey, why can't you look that good.

TRACY: But hey! Why should we knock Ainlay? It's a great school, I mean, look at all our athletic accomplishments. At least in Grade 10 and 11.

JEN: This past year, however, Ainlay was forced to receive several second places due to our firm resolution to stay.....

EVERYONE: STEROID FREE

MIKE: On that note, the Dubin Inquiry has been expanded to include the McNally football team.

MATT: Even our archrival, Seona, was able to beat us in one event.

TRACY: I know you're all thinking track, but actually, the truth of the matter is that they lead the city in Club Z points.

MIKE: But all joking aside, these last years will be some of the best of our lives.

MATT: So farewell to you parents, students, staff, and George.... I can call you that now, can't I?

JEN: Remember all the friends you've made at Harry Ainlay and remember to stay

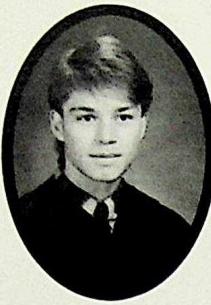

EVERYONE: forever young

TRACY: Enough of this sentimental stuff. We've got people to see, beer to drink, and besides you people look quite foolish.

MATT: What are those? Moo-moos?

MIKE: Hey we'd better hurry if we want to catch the Power Hour. All you Grads out there, good luck and welcome to the jungle!!

While we are young, time seems to pass slowly as we mature and learn. Yet, when we finally reach grade twelve, it is as though it were only last week when we entered kindergarten. Doesn't it just seem like yesterday we were coming as grade tens into Harry Ainlay? What an exciting, yet terrifying experience it was to enter an institution with 2300 other students to spend the so-called "greatest days of our lives". Had we made the right choice leaving the reassurance of our small junior highs to enter the "City of Harry Ainlay"?

Within a few weeks most of us had realized that yes, we had definitely made the "right" choice. What we found within Harry Ainlay was that we were, in fact, living within the big city of Harry Ainlay, and within this big city were many small towns. Each group of friends that we hung around with, or each club, or team was one of these small towns. Within these "towns" we found the friends, the safety, the reassurance, and the acceptance that each one of us craved, and we grew to feel a sense of belonging. The neat thing about living in this big city, is that while we are in our own little towns, we are all still part of this great city. A city which provides all of the towns in which we have established ourselves, the teams, the programs, the clubs, and the friends. When the time arises, all of our towns come together, and we unite as one.

Every single person in this school makes it what it is. Each person contributes in his own way, helping to give Harry Ainlay the all round personality that it has. With our athletics, fine arts, clubs, vocational programs and our academic system, Harry Ainlay is by far the most well-rounded "city" within Edmonton.

Harry Ainlay has provided well for us. It has given us everything a high school possibly could. Now, as we grow older, it is time to leave Ainlay's "towns and cities", time to test out an even bigger city for ourselves -- the world. Like in the words of Louisa May Alcott:

"Far away, there in the sunshine are my highest aspirations. I may not reach them, but I can look up and see their beauty, believe in them, and try to follow where they may lead."

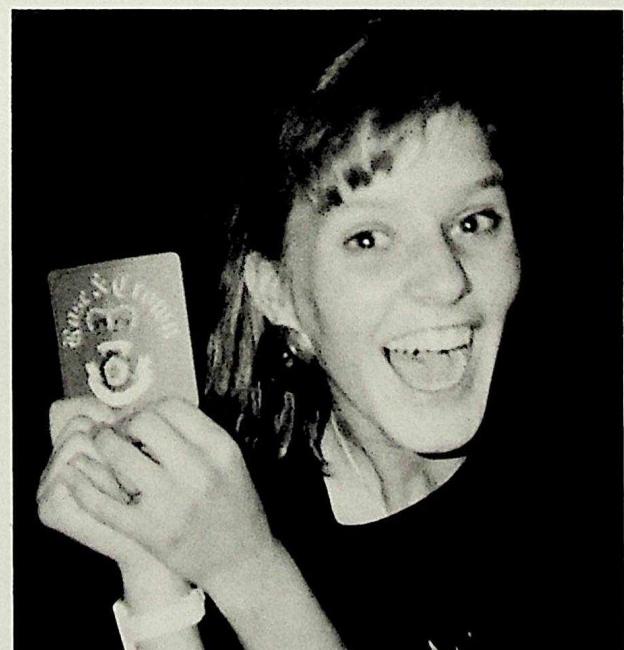

I think we will all remember what this school, and its individuals have given each and every one of us. I know that the memories that I take from Harry Ainlay will stay with me forever, and I'm sure yours will too.

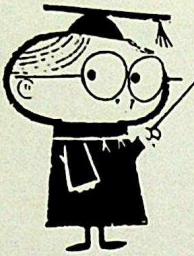

Good luck to everyone in the future -- your ultimate dreams await you!

Sincerely,

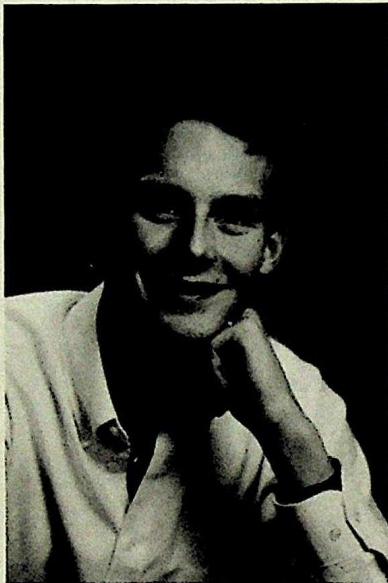

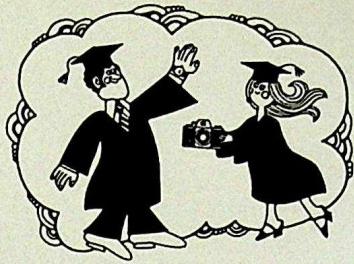

Cathlyn Robinson

GRAD COUNCIL

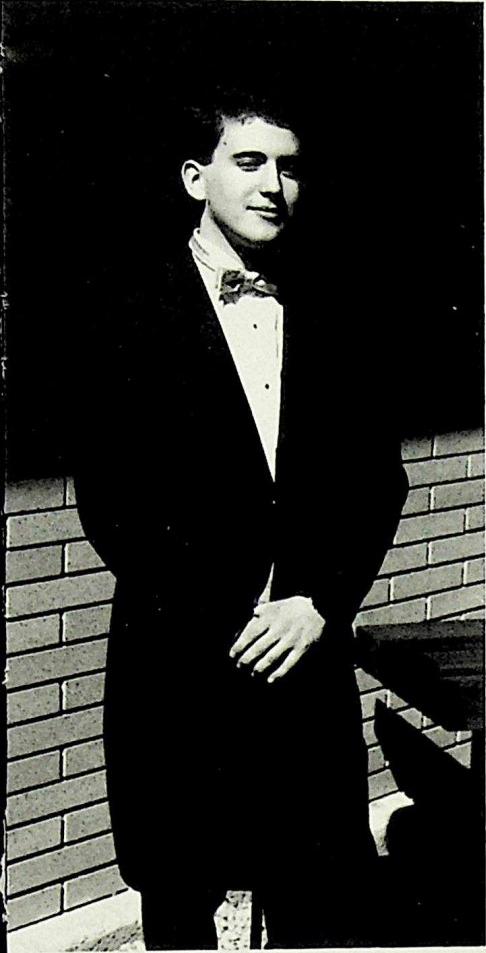

When I began to ponder what sort of wisdom I would share with the Graduating class in my yearbook message I tried to find some deep knowledge about life that would be both original and helpful. I found no such wisdom. What I did find was that getting tense and worried doesn't help. At that point I realized that the answer lay before my eyes. People, especially me, need to be reminded to relax and have fun. Often we get so caught up in the turbulence and problems of life that we forget to have fun. One of the most important lessons we must learn is to enjoy life and take the time to look around. In the words of Ferris Bueller "Life moves pretty fast. If you don't stop and look around every once in awhile you could miss it."

I would like to thank the people who help me enjoy life, my friends, including all the members of the Grad council who made the Graduation ceremonies a success. I would also like to extend a special thank-you to Mr. Bursey, Mrs. Krawchuk and Mr. Wynn, who guided and supported us through a sea of stale doughnuts, late pizzas, missed deadlines, tuxedo fittings and the occasional broken bone. I think that everyone involved in the planning and production of the Grand Event learned and grew from the experience.

I sincerely wish the best of luck to all the members of the Graduating Class of 1989 and remember what Bachman-Turner Overdrive said, "You ain't seen nothin' yet!"

Best of luck,

In September of 1988, Harry Ainlay became one of the first schools in Alberta to have its own chapter of Amnesty International. In addition to writing letters to free prisoners of conscience -- there imprisoned for their beliefs, race, colour, sex, or religion -- the Youth/Campus Network also planned fundraising events, weekly meetings, social activities, and had members attending regional conferences. While our first priority was to promote Amnesty International's mandate of equal human rights for all, we also increased awareness of the fact that social injustices can be remedied by direct and diplomatic action.

This was the first year of Youth/Campus groups for Amnesty, however our weekly meetings were always well attended by our dedicated members. Hopefully this enthusiasm will grow in the next few years to make Amnesty even more of a presence within the school community. Special thanks to Mrs. Newbold for her patient guidance and sense of humour in getting an idea "off the ground".

MATH CLUB

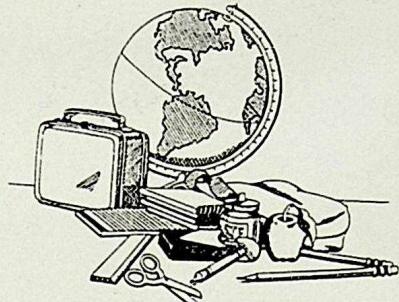

The Math Club is doing well in the 1988/89 season. In the Canadian National Mathematics League contest (6-30 minute exams), the team is currently placed third in the province. Mark Fokma and Adon Crook have achieved perfect scores on parts of the exam. We hope results on the remaining sections will be as good.

The Alberta High School Mathematics Competition began in November with Round 1 of the contest. Adon Crook received a special award for the top score by a grade 11 student in the province, Jennifer Zou and the Ainlay team (Adon, Jennifer, and Mark Forkema) received awards for their achievement in our zone. Round 2 which leads to the Canadian Olympiad was written on February 14. Results have not been received yet.

The Cayley (grade 10) and Fermat (grade 11) Contests were written on February 22, with a strong team at both levels, we hope to do well. The grade 12 Euclid exam will be written on April 19, 1989.

SPEECH AND DEBATE

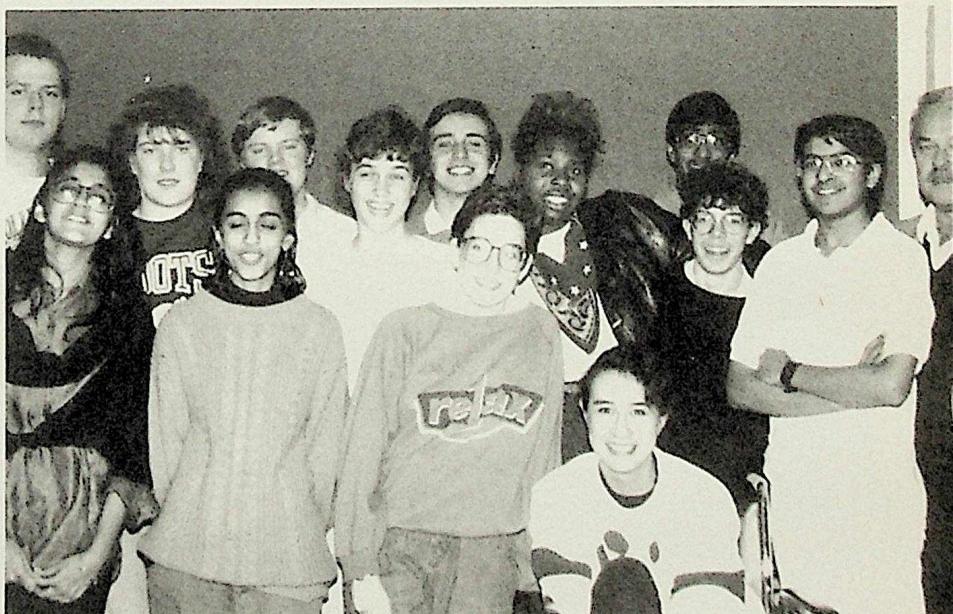

Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your eyes: I come to praise the Debate Club, not to bury it. The evil that clubs do lives after them, the good is oft interred with their bones; so let it NOT be with the Debate Club.

Taken (in part) from Antony's famous speech in Julius Caesar, this quotation retrospectively marks my sentiments towards the Debate Club. Two years ago, disorganization and disappointment (D and D) were the assassins responsible for the death of the Debate Team. The death of the team was as tragic as Brutus' but last year the team was as powerful as Caesar's ghost. Conceived in room 346, Mr. Sparks has successfully formed THE HARRY AINLAY DEBATE TEAM. Twenty members strong, the season began with a 2-day trip to Birch Bay Ranch for seminars. In an ensuing debate, Eve Tsai and David Burton (silver medalists), Juliet Knapton, Max Eman and David Burton all placed in the top ten Individual Speakers. Further accomplishments include Harry Ainlay making the Quarterfinals of the prestigious Sir Winston Churchill Debates. Many thanks to the participants of Mock Trial and Model Parliament. As proven last year, I hope that the Debate Team will continue to maintain its excellent standard in the future.

On Saturday October 22, 1988, twelve students from Harry Ainlay Composite High School competed together as three teams out of nineteen teams from schools across Edmonton in the 1988 Senior High Science Olympics.

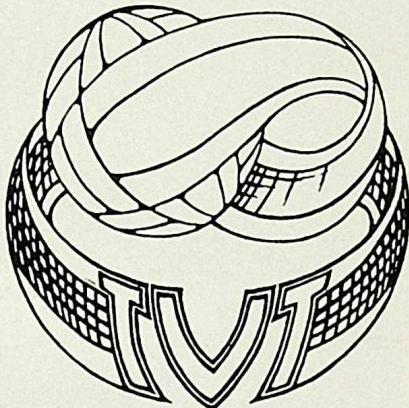

The three teams competed in five events throughout the day. "Which is Which?" "Fling Me", "Angels on the Head of a Pin," "Name that Bug", and "Trust Me" were the science oriented events that challenged our students. The sportsmanship exhibited by our team members was exemplary; our overall results in the competition was satisfactory.

What causes hundreds of Ainlayites to stamp their feet, scream at the top of their lungs and paint themselves all over in blue paint? No, it is not a heavy metal concert; no, it is not the Pope's visit. Yes, it is the Harry Ainlay Titan Volleyball Tournament. Behind the mass frenzy and the glamour of TVT however lies the hard work and dedication. This year the TVT committee spent long hard hours organizing the tournament, maintaining the high calibre of the matches for the coaches, the players and the fans. Thanks everyone, TVT '88 was a great success!

Every month or two <or three> throughout the year, a small but dedicated group of students gathered on the Vis. Com. room to perform bizarre rituals with wax, exact-o knives, and the typesetter.

No, they were not the Masochistic Club of Harry Ainlay although some self-inflicted pain was involved.
This was the Titanic staff of 1988-89

For those of us deeply involved, the Titanic was more than just a newspaper, it was a way to avoid homework.

The year started out fine, but before too long, the newspaper found itself in the hands of incompetents, due to some radical staff changes. But eventually, with the much-needed help of Mr. Taylor and Mr. Friesen, we figured out how to make a newspaper and proceeded to do so.

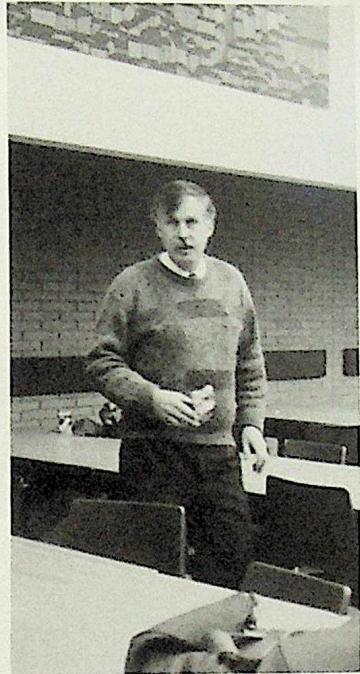

Since then, things have gone smoothly, apart from a series of minor disasters <natural and man-made!> We managed to get out several (we hope) fairly decent issues, even though the staff changed nearly every week. Once we got the hang of things, we began to make bold new changes in the newspaper, as well as new decorations (in crayon) for our lovely cave (room 518).

We would like to thank our contributors; they have our eternal gratitude. They include: Sean Costall, Eamonn Muldowney, Leah Handford, and a multitude of budding journalists too numerous to name.

Sincerely yours

TRI-PROV

Student Chairperson's Message

Welcome to Tri-Pro '89! I would like to extend a warm welcome to all the participants and supporters of this year's tournament.

The Tri-Pro Basketball Tournament is an Ainlay tradition which started fifteen years ago. The tournament has grown from a two-day all boys event to four days of exciting basketball action by both boys and girls teams from high school across Western Canada.

Organizing a tournament of this calibre requires many hours of hard work. I would like to thank the many individuals who have worked to make this tournament successful and memorable.

On behalf of Tri-Pro Executive and their assistants, I invite everyone to enjoy the tournament and join in Ainlay's school spirit.

BAMFIELD

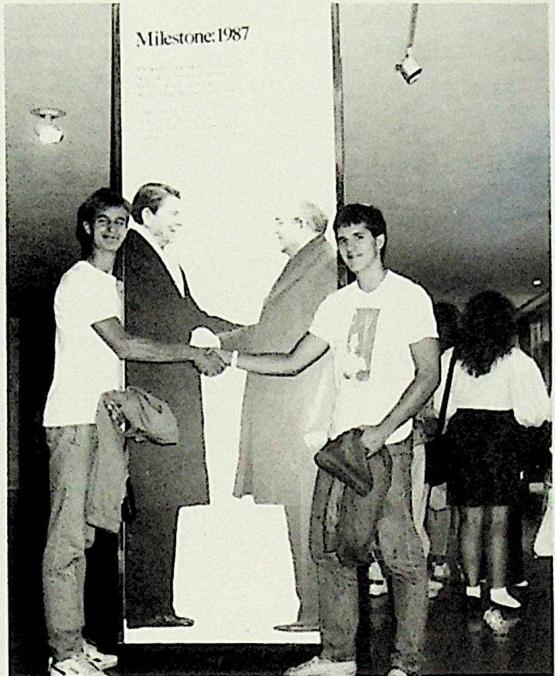

The Bamfield trip was a ton of fun, and yes, we also did some learning! Fifteen students with two teachers from Ainlay travelled to the west coast of Vancouver Island for five full days of adventure! The Bamfield Marine Biology Research Station is a five university research facility, at which university courses are offered in the summer and school field trips are organized during the winter.

I.B. NEW YORK TRIP

Milestone: 1987

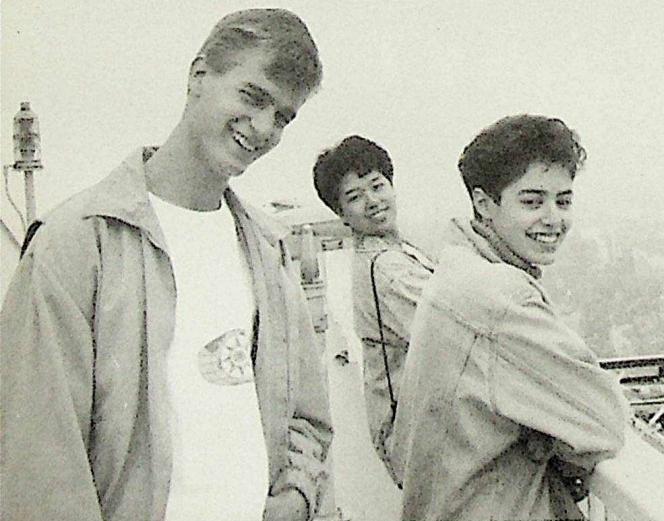

So we thought taking a week off school right before mid-terms could be disasterous...well, it was all worth it as we crossed the border and stayed in the heart of New York City, enjoying a truly cosmopolitan, if not costly, experience. From the unforgettable stand-up comedy at the Dangerfield's to the world class performance in Les Miserables on Broadway, the week was filled with intriguing activities unique to the Big Apple.

The United Nations, Empire State Building, the Metropolitan Museum, the world Trade Centre, Harlem, and Greenwich Village were only a few of the many places we visited. The glamorous and historical side of the city brought sharp contrasts to the cramp quarters (right, boys ?) and the endless traffic jams. We were caught in a time of political high tide as the presidential election was approaching. (Remember: LAAA...ROUGEEE!)

Special thanks should go out to Dr. Mitchner and Mrs. Tuffs who were as much our great companions as our chaperones on the trip.

What could forty-one reckless, picture-happy (Oh! Let me take a picture of THIS!) youths possibly gain in two weeks? Everything we need to know about Social 30 and more (Let's do the European scene). Endless memories include the Dresden food experience, the boat ride in "Pra-ha", seven cents "Budvaiser", the gondola ride in Venezia, our very own harmonica musicians, and, of course, Dachau. Special thanks to our chaperones, Dr. Mitchner and Mrs. Tuffs, for their PATIENCE and great companionship.

EXCHANGE STUDENTS

This year, like many others, is filled with many exchange students who are overwhelmed with life in Canada, and especially in Harry Ainlay. Here are one girl's thoughts of Canada and this wonderful school our ours:

The first steps on foreign ground. I felt like a small child discovering the world for the first time. Everything lay in front of me. "Use it, you will never get this chance again," said my father. One year in Canada, my dreams came true.

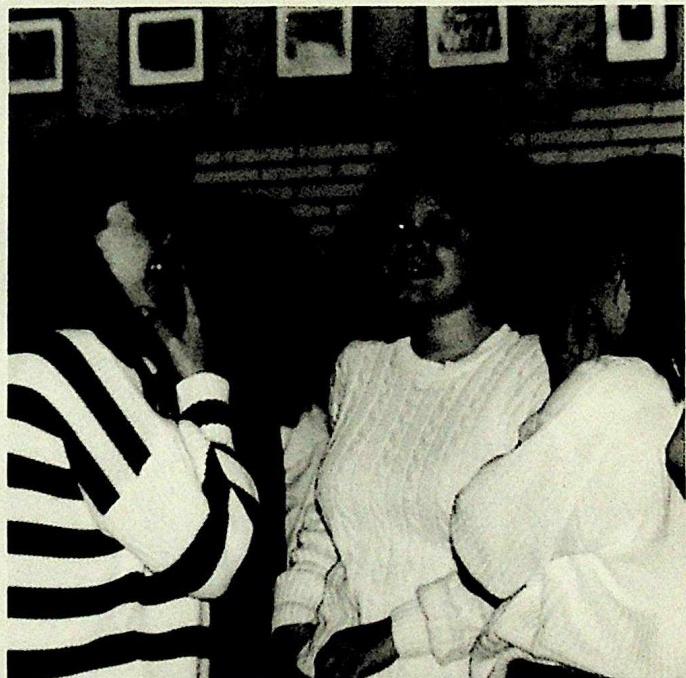

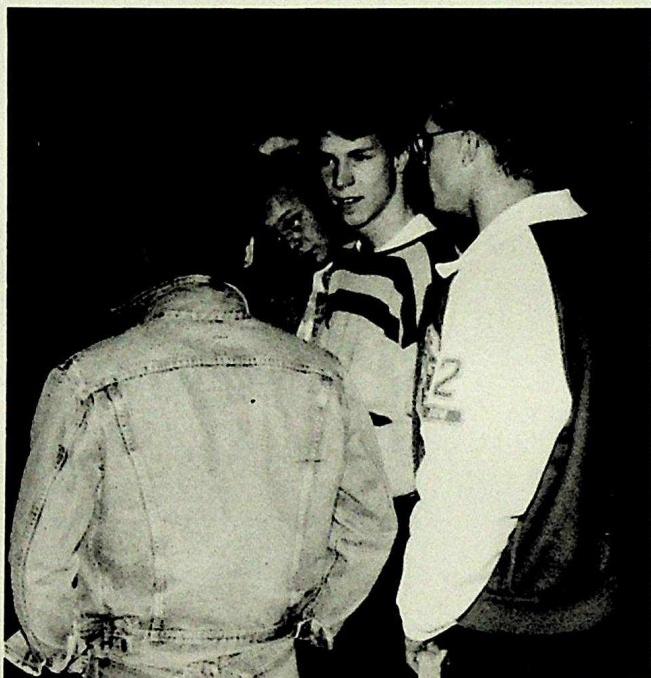

But it was not always that easy. For the first time, I suddenly realized that I was really alone and everything is totally different. I missed my friends and my family. I knew nobody could help me now. Sometimes I ask myself, "What am I doing here? I could be with friends, at least with people I know." At first, I hated everything. I found some friends and I did a lot with my host family. After 6 months, I didn't want to think about going home. After all it was a good year. It was more than just learning the language.

Special thanks to Mr. Nicholson, Mrs. Tisho, Mrs. Sereda, ... and all of the other teachers. Special thanks also to my host family and my friends.

EPSB/ASAA RALLY

Last fall, there was a disagreement with the EPSB and ASAA. The ASAA age limit for players is 19 years old, while the EPSB puts it at 20 years of age. The ASAA disagreed and banned our city teams from playing outside our city. It would mean the end of Tri-Prov and TVT. Our High School held a rally and signed petitions to get the ASAA to change its mind. Because of a lot of determined students, the ban was temporarily lifted. But what about next year? ...

The Sr. Football Titans came into the 1988 season high from a 1987 Provincial championship. However, a number of graduations had changed the profile of the team. The season provided a lot of growth for many new players. After playing a tough Lazerte team twice in a six game schedule, the Titans finished a respectable 3-3. The players rose to the occasion, playing their best game of the season against Lazerte in the city semifinal. Led by Rick Campbell and Jules McNeil on offence and Jon Hokanson on the defensive line, they lost a close but well played game.

Onward and Upward.

CURLING

Curling appears to be on the upswing at Harry Ainlay. This year three teams were entered in the Greater Edmonton High School Curling League at the Sportex as compared to two teams last year. The two junior boys' teams and the mixed team enjoyed a good season despite the fact that they often had to curl with only three players due to illness, accidents and other unforeseen problems.

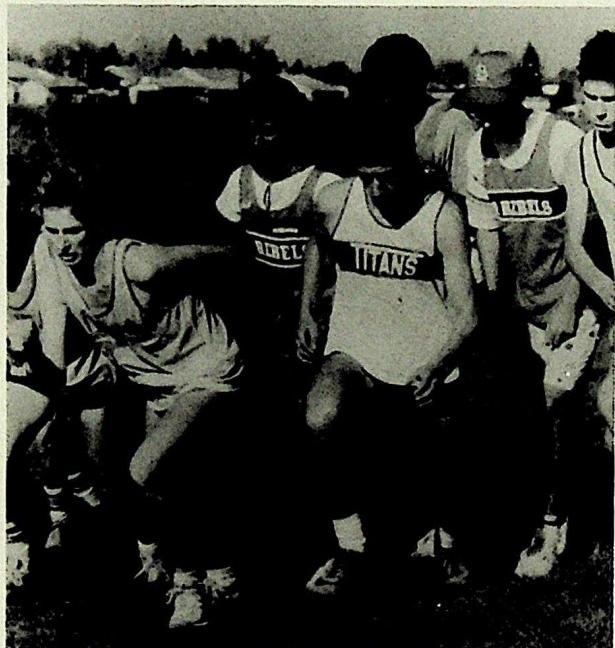

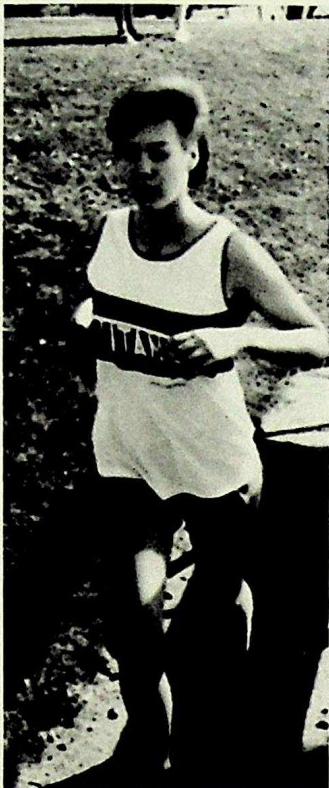

The boys' team skipped by Craig Miller and assisted by David Paul took the Section D trophy by defeating the Barry Bilinda rink from M.E. Lazerte (6-1), the Mike Nimco rink from Ainlay (10-4) and the Corey Pearce rink from Sherwood Park (12-0).

The other boys' team from Ainlay as well as the mixed team did not win any trophies; but did gain valuable experience. The other curlers from Ainlay were: Shannon Coughlin, Suzanne Lee, Kiran Bhatnager, Gisselle Wuzyk, Lisa Chalmers, Mike Nimco, Colin Bennett, Jay Crochett and John Beaton.

The curling club is looking forward to an even better showing next year with more curlers participating.

CROSS-COUNTRY TRACK

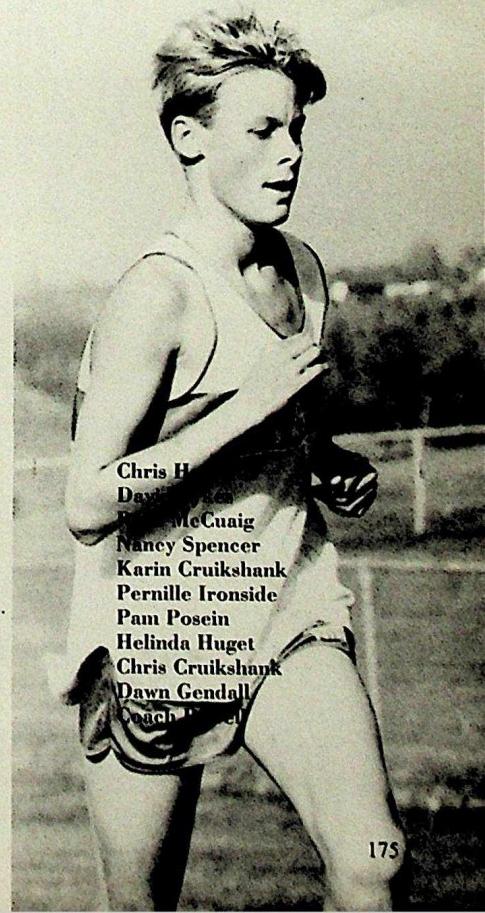

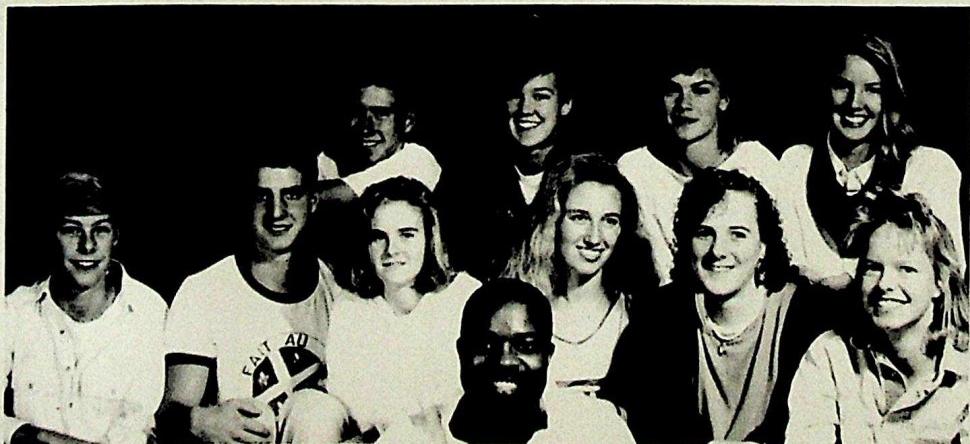

The 1988 Cross-Country season began on a very positive note which carried the team throughout the season. The girls' rookie team, led by Pam Posein and Nancy Spencer, captured first place at the 1988 rookie meet. The boys' rookie team, led by David Sykes, finished sixth in their category as both teams combined to give the Titans a second place finish at the rookie meet.

There were ten members on the Cross-Country team in 1988. These included nine rookies and one senior, Karin Cruikshank. (Yeah! Karin). Six Titans: Pam Posein, Nancy Spencer, Melinda Hugett, Dawn Gendall, Karin Cruikshank and David Sykes made it to the Provincial Championships. However they were unable to complete because of difference between the ASAA and EDMONTON PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

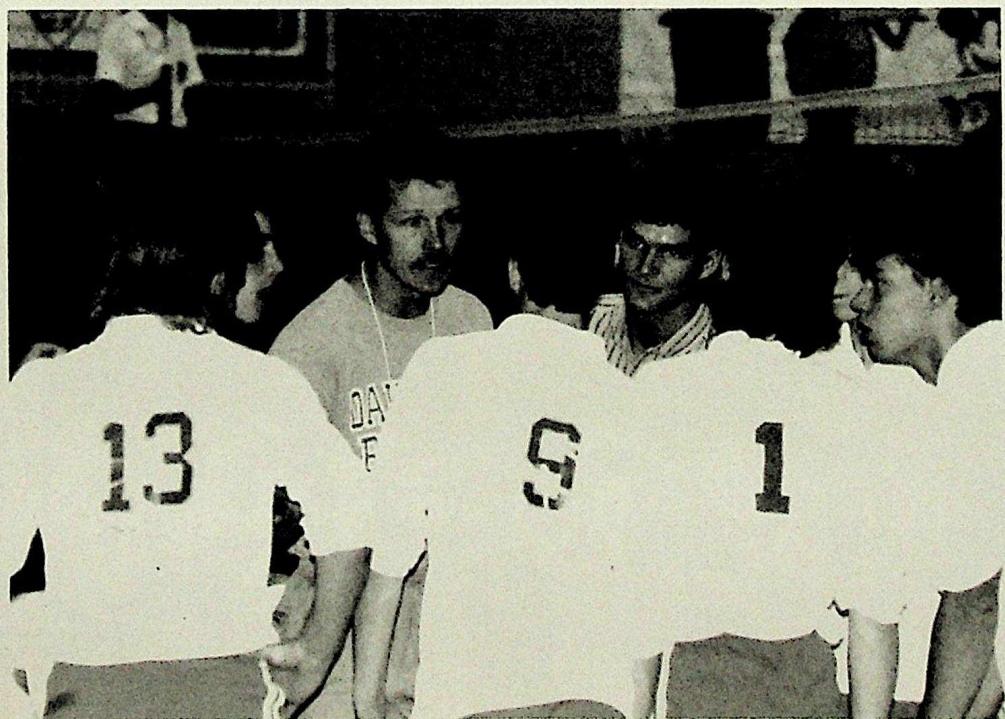

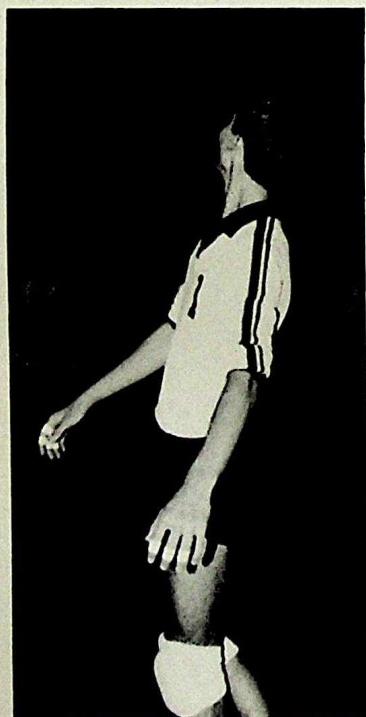

I had so much pleasure working with the team this year. They were "just another part of me." Congratulations!

SENIOR BOYS' VOLLEYBALL

The season started with a number of successful tournaments. The team won the first tournament at the University of Calgary and the Lethbridge tournament. Our trip to Winnipeg resulted in a third place finish. The team went through the regular season undefeated. We came up short in the Canadian Provincial Championships, finishing second to Percy Page. In order to get back into the Provincials, the team put together a big effort and came back to defeat Salisbury 16-14 after being down 14-7 in the fifth game. We finished very strong in the provincials and captured second place to Percy Page Canada. A special note of thanks to Cathlyn Robinson and Corrie Reimprecht for their efforts with the Edmonton Public School Board. Without their support, leadership and efforts the Provincial Championships would not have been possible for P.S.B. Teams.

Thank-you girls for a very successful year.

JUNIOR BOYS' VOLLEYBALL

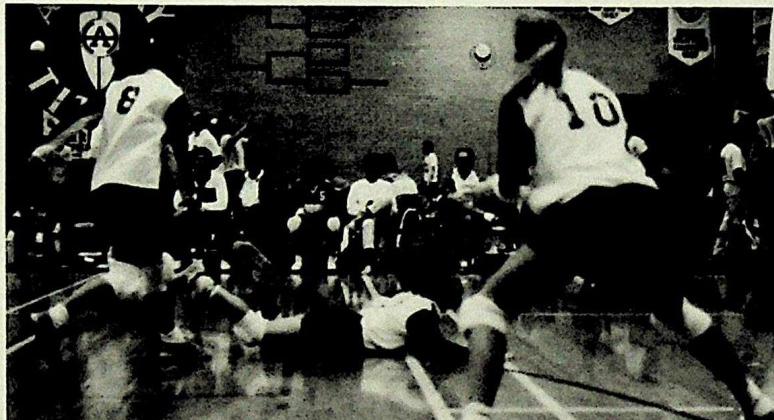

The Junior TITANS enjoyed a very successful season. Unbeaten in regular season play resulted in a first place finish and gold medal wins in the Salisbury Tournament and our own TITAN CLASSIC. The highlight of the season was winning the city championship in November.

TITANS 'I' TOGETHER

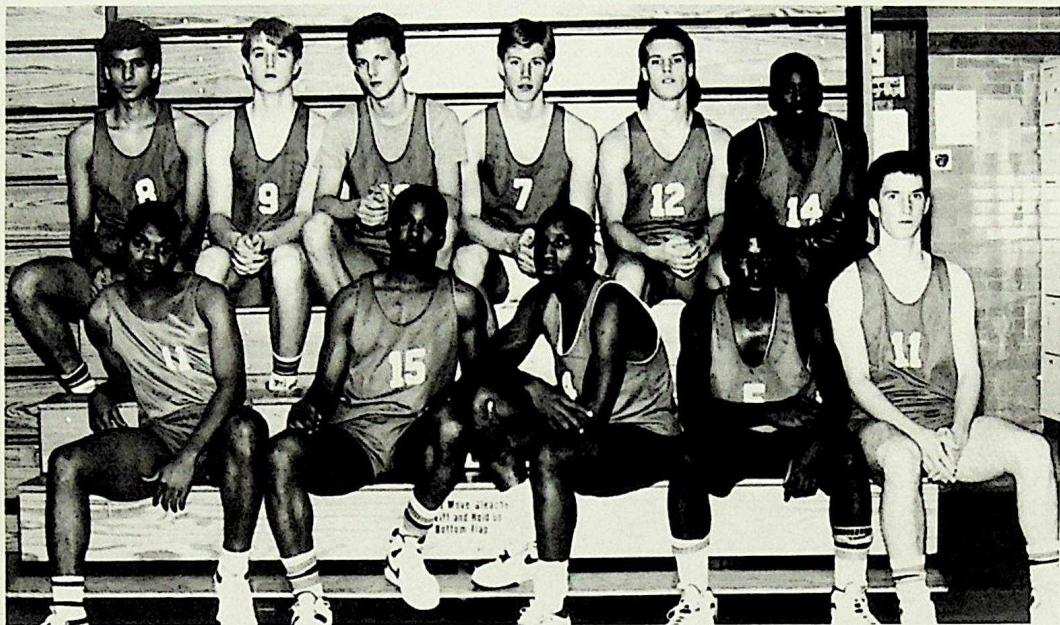

The junior girls had a successful and challenging 1988 season. The team worked hard during the regular season to place first in the West Conference division with a standing of 10-0 matches won. After a slight upset in the semifinals at the Salisbury Tournament, the team came back to place third in their own Titan Classic Tournament. With this success behind the team, the City Championships looked very hopeful. Through a very challenging match against McNally Tigers, the junior girls placed second in the cities. The team should be congratulated for their season!

The senior girls had a year of ups and downs. The Titans placed third in the CAPHER Tournament and third in their own TRI-PROV Tournament. The Titans placed second in the Lethbridge Collegiate Institute Tournament after a very close and well played game against the Lethbridge Clipper Queens. This, along with playing the top teams in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia allowed the Titans a chance to improve throughout the year. The Titans were led by Grade 12's Jennifer Charters and Corrie Reinprecht, along with Malaika Barriffe, an always improving Grade 11 student. The Titans finished the regular season 11-1. Everyone on the team agrees that the highlight of the year was a Christmas trip to Vancouver for a Tournament. The team placed second in the city championship. Congratulations to the team for a great season!

JUNIOR BOYS' BASKETBALL

The 1988-89 junior boys' basketball team had a great year. They were champions in the Edmonton Basketball Referee Association Jr. Development Tournament (fifth consecutive year), The Jean Paul II Senior boys' Tournament in Fort Saskatchewan and the Lindsay Thumber Junior boys' Tournament in Red Deer. The team finished in first place with a record of fifteen to one (then only losing at the hands of Ross Sheppard). During league play they finished with the best "points for" record (74) and the lowest "points against" (48).

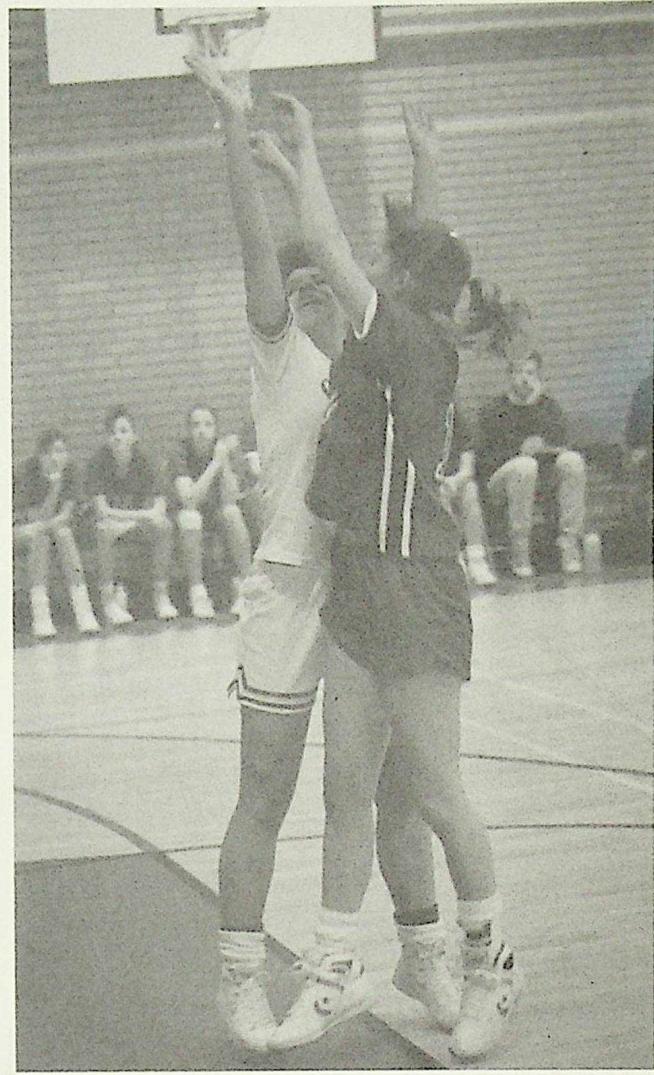

Following play-off wins against Queen Elizabeth and Eastglen the Titans dominated Ross Sheppard 75-54 to capture the Edmonton Public School Junior Boys' Championship in an impressive manner. Congratulations to all players.

The Junior Girls' Basketball squad had a very busy and successful season. Aside from playing in the Salisbury Invitational tournament at the beginning of the season, the girls also played in exhibition games against a visiting Oak Bay, Victoria team, travelled to Calgary to play Western Canada Redmen and Crescent Heights Cowboys. The girls' only loss came in the City Finals game, where after 40 minutes of tough play, McNally Jr. Girls won by only two points. In regular league play the girls dominated and came out with an undefeated record of 14-0, and the best points for and against average. The gymnastics team this year embarked on a new format. After the 1988 High School Provincial Championships the ASAA decided to drop gymnastics as an interschool sport. The coaches and athletes did not want to see their program end so they decided to join the Canadian Gymnastics Club. Because of this decision it has given big school athletes a chance to perform against club trained athletes. This season, the team travelled to competitions in Helena, Montana; Lethbridge, Saskatchewan; Victoria, British Columbia; Brandon, Manitoba; Regina, Wyoming; Rapid City, South Dakota; Seattle, Washington; and the 1989 Canadian National Championships in St. Catharines, Ontario.

The 1990 season will bring many changes and opportunities for example:

Saskatoon, Regina, Wyoming, Rapid City, South Dakota; Seattle, Washington; and the 1990 Canadian National Championships in St. Catharines, Ontario.

A new head coach, Mrs. Annette Noble, and Mr. Colin Penman, Knudsen and Mr. Anweiler will be the club's head coaches.

Mrs. Annette Noble, former gymnast and trainer, the performer of B.G.

Mr. Kelly Mock, a 10-year-old gymnast who is our new coach. Mr. Jeff Lin, former club gymnast who coaches the boys.

Mr. Knudsen, manager/trainer, will be the manager/trainer for the boys.

A new manager, Mr. Anweiler, will be the manager/trainer for the girls.

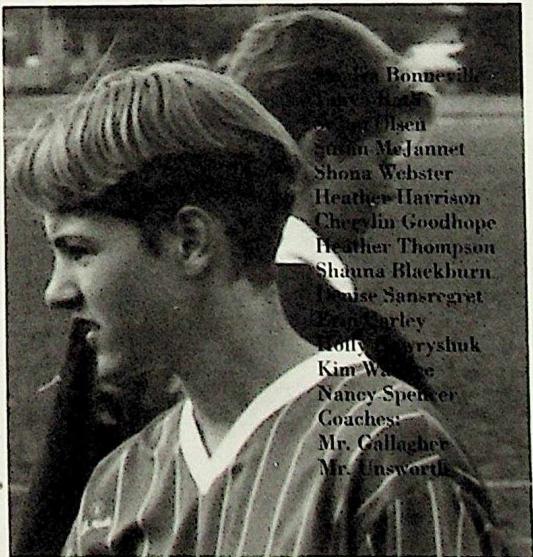

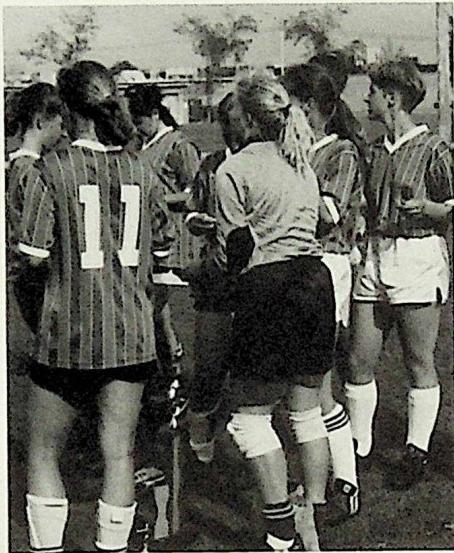

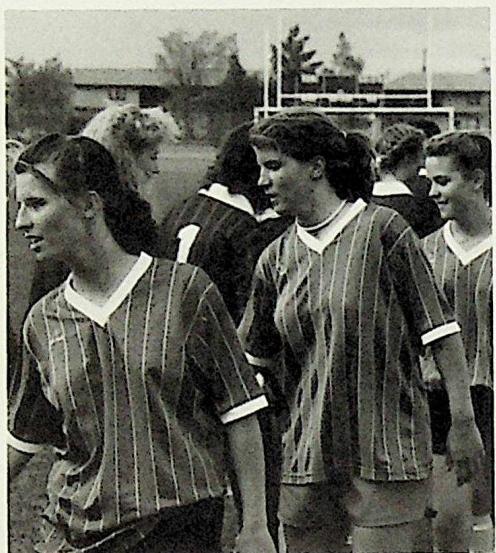

With the addition of new coaches and the addition of new members, the club will be growing and adding more opportunities for our athletes from the beginning to the end of the year.
